progress being made in the fight against breast cancer.

The most recent SEER Cancer Statistics Review, released in April 2018, indicates cancer death rates among women decreased by 1.4 percent per year between 2004 and 2015. Overall cancer death rates among women declined by 39 percent from 1989 to 2015. That progress is attributed to improvements in early detection and treatment protocols. For anyone doing the math, over the last 25 years, improved detection methods and mammography, and improved treatments are helping to drive survival rates of breast cancer. Although this does not make diagnosis any less scary, it does offer hope to those recently diagnosed.

Tennessee Attorney General's Office

Attorney General Herbert H. Slatery III, along with the other 49 states and the District of Columbia, has reached an agreement with California-based ride-sharing company Uber Technologies Inc. to address the company's one-year delay in reporting a data breach to its affected drivers.

Uber learned in November 2016 that hackers had gained access to personal information Uber maintains about its drivers, including drivers' license information pertaining to approximately 600,000 drivers nationwide. Uber tracked down the hackers, agreed to pay them $100,000 and obtained assurances that the hackers deleted the information.

However, even though some of that information, namely drivers' license numbers for Uber drivers, triggered Tennessee law requiring them to notify affected residents, Uber failed to report the breach in a timely manner, waiting until November 2017 to report it.

As part of the nationwide settlement, Uber has agreed to pay $148 million to the states. Tennessee will receive nearly $1.7 million which will be directed into the state's general fund.

In addition, Uber has agreed to strengthen its corporate governance and data security practices to help prevent a similar occurrence in the future.
